Amy Fagan reports in today's Washington Times that the pace of Social Security reform will depend on the American people.